

TWO QUESTIONS

I have two questions worthy enough to post next to my computer:

- “Is There Another Way?” reminds me to stay nimble. Whether I’m trying to ride a pattern on horseback in a crowded arena, or fighting to get my sleeping bag back into its stuff sack, there’s always another way. Just asking the question leads to ingenuity, pattern breaking, fluidity, and progress.
- “Is this the best use of my time?” keeps me on task and off tangents. Sometimes the unexpected detour is where I need to swerve, but this question makes me pause and choose.

Homework: What’s posted next to your computer?

Great note, Shannon! I am actually allowed to whine twice. The first I don't usually see coming, and the second, shows me it's something really bothersome. After that I am required to either make a change away from what is whine-worthy, or accept it without complaint!

My computer note is pithy: No whining.

Next to my monitor, in NO particular order: 1) My EIN# 2) Mission, Vision, Values (created with the assistance of Dodie) 3) The word "NO!" Highly inappropriate for someone with a service business, but perfect for a business owner 4) A list of quotes/inspiration. My favorite: "It is never to late to be what you might have become" -George Elliot
